A Note from the Editor in Chief

It is with great pleasure that I present to my friends and colleagues the last issue of 2015 of the JOURNAL OF CRANIOFACIAL SURGERY. It happens that this issue represents a major feature for the journal. This issue marks our increase from 6 issues a year to 8. With the publication of the 8th issue of the 26th volume, we have over 2400 pages of valuable material archived for research. For 2016, will continue with our tradition of bringing you high quality scholarly publication, from the east to the west, on a global level.

2016 will also bring the tradition of two prestigious institutions - Harvard/Hopkins. Their representatives will take an active role on the editorial board, as it was with those who inspired the development of the journal over three decades ago. Additionally we are starting a resident corner. A few editorial board members will mentor a few resident so the journal traditions will continue well into the future.

We had a great editorial board meeting in Boston and we were pleased that so many of the publishing team were in attendance. As you, our board members, are our ambassadors to the global community, we appreciate your loyalty and commitment.

Lastly you will find the TOC for the November issue provides perspectives in medical education and was edited by Dr. Neil Salyapongse and inspired by a friend of the journal, Dr. Bentz, both from the University of Wisconsin. Please join me with cheers and thanks to both of them for a work well done.

As always, should you have any suggestions or recommendations, that are constructive in nature, please be sure to share those with us. The journal has an open door policy to you all.

From our family to yours, we wish you Happy Holidays and a safe prosperous New Year.
