5 Focus Areas

• Education and training issues
• Health and science policy
• Institutional policy, management, and values
• Research practice
• Clinical practice
Education and training issues

Including:

- Best practices and innovations at all stages of medical and health professions education
- Residency training, graduate medical education, and continuing medical education in a changing world
- How to better understand and be more aware of the present influences on medical and health professions education
- Humanities in medical education
- History of medical education and training
- International medical education
Health and science policy

Including rigorous and thoughtful analyses and critical discussions of current educational, political, financial, or social trends affecting or likely to affect academic medicine.
Institutional policy, management, and values

Including:

- Organizational administration, including descriptions of institutional mergers or starting new schools
- Tripartite mission of teaching hospitals (research, education, and clinical practice)
- Planning, goal-setting, and allocating financial and faculty resources at medical schools and teaching hospitals
Research practice

Including:

• Managing conflicts of interest
• Innovations in clinical and translational research
• Funding issues
• Ethics and professional values
• Innovations with systematic implications for research
Clinical practice in academic settings

Including:

• Quality and safety research
• Advances in information technologies and medical informatics
• Innovations at academic health centers and academic medical centers
• Workforce issues, including physician shortages
• Professionalism
Questions?

Contact the editorial office at:
Telephone: (202) 828-0590
E-mail: acadmed_online@aamc.org
Online: www.academicmedicine.org