

THE JOURNAL OF AMBULATORY CARE MANAGEMENT

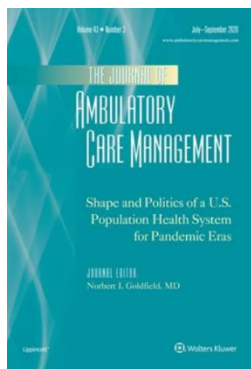

The Journal of Ambulatory Care Management is seeking high-quality research papers on ambulatory care as well as expert commentaries and/or review articles on timely topics in ambulatory care management and health care policy. Relevant submitted manuscripts will be peer-reviewed and considered for publication in the Journal.

The Journal will consider original research, review papers, short reports, and commentaries/perspectives. Potential topics may include:

- Changes in outpatient care from the COVID-19 era
- Evolving roles of community health workers in times of a pandemic
- Ambulatory organizational innovation at a time of financial stress
- Improving quality while managing outpatient services with fewer resources
- Innovative linkages between ambulatory care and the community
- Telehealth and health information technology in ambulatory care management

Relevant manuscripts will receive editorial and peer-review. Please read over our Instructions for Authors before submitting your manuscript.

Submit your manuscript to the Journal's online peer review system:
<https://www.editorialmanager.com/jacm/default.aspx>

The Journal of Ambulatory Care Management (JAC) is a peer-reviewed journal that provides timely, applied information on the most important developments and issues in ambulatory care management. The Journal is edited by Dr. Norbert I. Goldfield, MD. JAC is indexed in major bibliographic databases including PubMed, MEDLINE, Scopus, and Web of Science. To learn more, please visit the Journal's website.