

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: Where can I view the previous issue summary videos if I missed one?

Answer: LINK TO VIEW previous monthly issue summaries.

Question: How can I avoid having my video abstract returned to me to correct technical errors?

Answer: LINK TO WATCH video abstract tutorial.

Question: What are common errors to avoid when submitting my manuscript?

Answer: LINK TO LEARN more about submitting content by viewing tips for avoiding common errors.

Question: Where can I find tips to avoid submission errors?

Answer: LINK TO CHECKLIST to avoid missing required items at submission. The Diseases of the Colon & Rectum is pleased to offer authors a free rapid manuscript checking tool. The tool is free, fast, and may help spot mistakes that could otherwise delay a submission. Click the submission link on this page to open the manuscript submission service website in a new browser window. (Please Note: Case reports and physician surveys are not accepted by this journal.) LINK to tool.

Question: Are instructions available in other languages?

Answer: LINK TO READ written tips and instructions in Chinese and Japanese for submitting content.

Question: How do I become a reviewer?

Answer: LINK TO WATCH video on how to become a reviewer for DCR.

Question: Where can I obtain the skills necessary for becoming an effective peer reviewer for DCR?

Answer: LINK TO WATCH DCR symposium videos on how to review manuscripts.

Question: Does DCR offer CME?

Answer: Yes, CME credits are available for reading designated DCR articles. See Collections.

Question: How can I contact the DCR Editorial Office or review the clinical and research interests of a DCR Editorial Board member?

Answer: LINK TO VIEW Clinical and Research Interests of the DCR Editorial Board Members.

Answer: LINK TO CONTACT DCR Editorial Office.