1. Discuss the main objective of this study and whether a qualitative approach is best suited to address this objective.
2. The authors list their inclusion criteria. Discuss whether you agree or disagree with these criteria.
3. Participants were recruited from three major cities through social media. Discuss the advantages and disadvantages of this recruitment process.
4. One of the aims of qualitative studies is to describe the breadth of experiences of individuals pertinent to a particular question. Discuss whether the authors achieved this goal.
5. Discuss the themes that emerged from the qualitative data, and the subthemes included in Table 1. Choose a subtheme and discuss how this may apply to your clinical setting.
6. Given the findings of the study, discuss how your practice might address systemic racism in care delivery.
7. The authors report that they reached saturation in their interviews with 21 interviews. Discuss what saturation means.
8. Review the Consolidated Criteria for Reporting Qualitative Research (COREQ) checklist. How were the authors compliant with these guidelines, and where are the opportunities for improvement?
9. This article is an example of qualitative research. Compare and contrast qualitative methodologies to the design of a randomized controlled trial. Where are they similar and where do they diverge?