

IFFS Affirmation of Human Rights and Sexual and Reproductive Health Rights
June 15, 2020

The International Federation of Fertility Societies is a global leader in education, research, and advocacy. Our 67 nation member societies practice and exemplify the promotion of universal access to the highest quality fertility and reproductive health care, regardless of race, ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation, age, and country of origin. As a Non-State Actor in official relations with the World Health Organization (WHO), we promote and develop educational initiatives in the field of reproductive health in support of WHO aims and objectives and the focus and prioritization the WHO has given to infertility as a disease and its support of human rights for all. In these trying times of the COVID19 pandemic and the ongoing global turmoil underscoring socioeconomic and racial disparities, IFFS hereby reaffirms its commitment to advocate for upholding the goals of civil society, including equitable, functioning and accountable health care delivery systems, universal education, fair judiciary systems and other structural components to advance reproductive and human rights and sexual and reproductive health and health care across the globe.
