The Journal of Addictions Nursing invites submissions of papers for a special topic issue on Eating Disorders.

These neurobiobehavioral diseases are distinguished by problems related to the regulation of eating practices and recurrent tendencies to overuse or under use food in unhealthy ways. These disorders include anorexia nervosa, bulimia nervosa, binge eating disorder, overweight, and obesity. Appreciating the significant health risks of the range of eating disorders and the extremely high rate of individuals coping with obesity, this special issue aims to publish papers addressing a wide range of topics on eating disorders, with special consideration of assessment and treatment in special populations, interdisciplinary approaches, and implications for nursing and health. Reports of original research and literature reviews are encouraged.

Potential topics for papers may include:

- Neurobiobehavioral influences on the development, progression, and process of recovering from an eating disorder, including the concept of food addiction
- Health consequences of eating disorders
- Eating disorders in specific populations (youth, older individuals, women, men, persons with a mental illness and/or an addiction, ethnic groups)
- Assessment of eating disorders
- Interventions for the treatment of eating disorders
- Interventions for the prevention of eating disorders
- Interventions for the prevention relapses of eating disorders
- Community based approaches
- Eating disorders among health professionals
- Perceptions of eating disorders among health care professionals

Guest editors for this issue are Janice Cooke Feigenbaum, RN, Ph.D., MSN, Clinical Professor Emeritus, University at Buffalo School of Nursing; and Stacen A. Keating, Ph.D., RN, Assistant Clinical Professor, New York University College of Nursing.

See Instructions to Authors for guidelines on manuscript preparation and formatting at http://edmgr.ovid.com/jan/accounts/ifauth.htm; Authors should submit original papers for review at: http://www.editorialmanager.com/jan/. Inquiries should be sent to Christine Vourakis, Editor at cvourakis@csus.edu.