The COVID-19 virus has already made a massive impact on every aspect of the global healthcare community. As this pandemic affects all those in the healthcare field, the Journal of Continuing Education in the Health Professions continues to pursue its ongoing mission to advance the professional development of individuals and teams in the health professions.

JCEHP is encouraging the submission of papers related to COVID-19, with a focus on healthcare providers’ CPD needs and CPD intervention responses to those needs. We are asking for submissions to be formatted as a Short Reports, Forums, or Rapid Communication article types. These submissions will go through an expedited review process in order to quickly reach our readership. Journal guidelines for Short Reports and Forums are found on our Instructions for Authors page. Guidelines for Rapid Communications are listed below

Rapid Communication: Concise research or report findings related to continuing professional development of high priority. Communications will have expedited review and revision times.

- Title: Maximum of 20 words
- Format: Maximum of 1000 words (no abstract)
- References: No more than 5 references
- Maximum 1 Table OR Figure
