

Call for Papers

“Quality and Safety in Veteran Populations”

The Journal for Healthcare Quality (JHQ) is seeking high-quality original research, quality improvement, and systematic review manuscripts for the 2019 special issue, which will focus on Quality and Safety in Veteran Populations.

JHQ is seeking manuscripts that focus on improving quality and safety outcomes for veteran populations across the healthcare continuum. Of particular interest are manuscripts that address care delivery innovation, population health performance improvement initiatives, and other quality initiatives that leverage data analytics. Manuscripts might also address capacity building for quality and safety in the care of veteran populations within and/or outside the Veterans Health Administration infrastructure.

Dr. Doreen Harper, Dean of the University of Alabama at Birmingham School of Nursing and Dr. Suzie Miltner, Associate Editor for JHQ are co-guest editors for this special issue. Inquiries about the special issue can be made either to Dr. Harper at dcharper@uab.edu or Dr. Miltner at smiltner@uab.edu

Dr. Harper

Manuscript submissions for the special issue are due by July 1, 2018. Please follow our author guidelines and submit manuscripts electronically through the JHQ Editorial Manager system at <http://www.editorialmanager.com/JHQ> and select the category “Special Topics Series.” Please include a cover letter stating that you would like the manuscript considered for the special issue on “Quality and Safety in Veteran Populations.”

Dr. Miltner

About the Journal:

Journal for Healthcare Quality (JHQ), a peer-reviewed journal, is an official publication of the National Association for Healthcare Quality. JHQ is a professional forum that continuously advances healthcare quality practice in a diverse and changing environment, and is the first choice for creative and scientific solutions in the pursuit of healthcare quality. The mission of JHQ is to advance the art and science of healthcare quality. Its audience is professionals dedicated to promoting healthcare treatment and services that are safe, effective, patient-centered, timely, efficient, equitable, and evidence-based across the continuum of care.

The Journal publishes scholarly articles targeted to leaders of all healthcare settings, leveraging applied research and producing practice, timely, and impactful evidence in healthcare system transformation. For more information about the Journal and author guidelines, please visit www.jhqonline.com

