

Addiction Medicine

The Official Journal of the American Society of Addiction Medicine

Call for Applicants
Editor-in-Chief
Journal of Addiction Medicine

The Editor-in-Chief (EIC) for the Journal of Addiction Medicine (JAM) provides the vision, strategy, energy, and leadership to produce a bimonthly journal that disseminates findings from groundbreaking research in addiction medicine through print and electronic media to diverse audiences. A complete position description is available online at: Careers at ASAM

The American Society of Addiction Medicine invites nominations and applications for the position of Editor-in-Chief (EIC) for the Journal of Addiction Medicine \(jww.com\) for a 3-year, renewable term.

Published bimonthly, JAM's mission is to promote excellence in the practice of addiction medicine and clinical research. The EIC is responsible for the editorial content, operations, promotion and staffing of JAM. With journal Co-Editors, the EIC ensures content is clinically accurate, timely and targeted to the readership and editorial mission. She/he guides the overall mission and objectives for the publication and develops an editorial agenda based on clinical and scientific trends in its market.

This position also works closely with the publisher, Co-Editors, Managing Editor, peer-reviewers, and ASAM to direct development of supplements, spinoffs, sponsored content (grant or commercial), new publications, and balances both content and business needs to meet the mission of the journal, ASAM's mission and goals. Interested individuals are referred to the position description online at Careers at ASAM for detailed information regarding qualifications, duties, and responsibilities. Applications for this position must be received by 5:00 PM Eastern on Thursday, April 14th, 2022. Finalists will be invited to a face-to-face interview with the ASAM Editor Search Task Force.

To be considered complete the submission must include:

- Curriculum vitae.
- A letter of commitment describing interest in and qualifications for the position. The letter should describe ideas for the organization and operation of the Journal including innovative ideas to help advance the Journal's mission of increasing diversity, equity, and inclusion in scientific publishing.
- A vision statement for the Journal of Addiction Medicine
- Conflict of interest disclosure Universal Disclosure Policy \(asam.org\)

ASAM provides equal opportunity to all applicants. No person shall be discriminated against because of race, color, religion, sex, national or ethnic origin, age, physical handicaps, marital status, sexual orientation, family responsibilities, political affiliation, or any other category that is protected by federal law or the laws of the state of Maryland. Candidates can access the electronic application here ASAM Member Portal \(membersuite.com\). Additional application materials should be sent electronically to editorsearch@asam.org, or by mail to ASAM, Attention: JAM Editor Search, 11400 Rockville Pike, #200 Rockville, MD. 20852

