What content is Medicine® looking for in the area of hematology?

“Studies relevant to an international general medical audience, covering all aspects of clinical and laboratory Haematology, as well as relevant basic science aspects. This can include clinical trials, observational studies, case reports and case series, and systematic reviews. Novelty is not absolutely necessary; rather, the focus should be on technically sound studies which add to the existing knowledge base.”

What advice would you give to researchers looking to publish their work in Medicine®?

“Clearly outline the aims and findings of your study. If English is not your first language, get an English speaker to check and edit your manuscript so that it’s legible. Also, ensure that any included statistics are sound and support the study conclusions.”
