What content is Medicine® looking for in the area of palliative care?
“Medicine* is looking for content pertaining to areas of need in Palliative Care research. These areas include answering important questions related to issues that affect palliative care patients and their families, friends, and caregivers. Additional topics of interest in palliative care include addressing disparities of care, advanced care planning, cost-effectiveness, appropriate utilization of palliative care services and models of palliative care delivery.”

What advice would you give to researchers looking to publish their work in Medicine®?
“The manuscript should center around a key message with a clear, concise story to tell and supporting evidence. Present your manuscript to trusted colleagues who are willing to provide objective feedback to you prior to manuscript submission and incorporate this feedback into your manuscript submission. The manuscript should align with the journal and content area of the journal where it is being submitted.”
