Title: Educating During Times of Crisis

Short description: We are seeking nursing education research studies focused on issues affecting higher education during times of crisis. Specifically, we are interested in manuscripts that focus on evaluation of different models of educational delivery, flexible clinical experiences, student support for academic and non-academic challenges, changes needed to continue operations, synergistic service activities created in response to the crisis, and disrupted programs of research.

We are also seeking single-site studies for the journal’s Research Briefs section, and innovative pedagogical strategies in the Innovation Center that fit this call.

Manuscript submission deadline date: January 15, 2022
