Topic: Developing Oncology Physical Therapy: Entry-level to Specialty Practice

In continuing to serve our mission to “advance oncologic physical therapy practice and cancer rehabilitation through the dissemination of definitive evidence, translation of clinically relevant knowledge, and integration of theory into education, practice, and research,” Rehabilitation Oncology is actively seeking manuscripts that encompass education and developing advanced practice skills related to caring for individuals with cancer or chronic illness. Specifically, we seek papers related to education of entry-level clinicians, advanced level education, specialization, including residency and fellowship education, and implementation science.

Please contact guest editors Shana Harrington, PT, PhD (sharring@mailbox.sc.edu) and Amy Litterini, PT, DPT (alitterini@une.edu) for questions or if you are interested in submitting to the special issue.
